The screenshot shows the EducationNext.org website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for NEWS, RESEARCH, PODCASTS, THE JOURNAL, BLOG, and BOOK REVIEWS. A search icon, an envelope icon, and a SUBSCRIBE button are also visible. The main content area features a large article titled "Our Biggest Nightmare Is Here" under the TECHNOLOGY category. The article's sub-headline is "Cyberattacks are targeting school districts. How can schools respond to keep data and systems secure?" and it is attributed to Eileen Belastock. Below the article title, there is a small image of a laptop displaying the text "WE HAVE YOUR DATA!" on its screen. To the right of the main article, there is a "TRENDING STORIES" section with another article titled "Don't Ruin College by Making It Free" under the BLOG category, also attributed to Eileen Belastock. The website's logo, "Education Next", is prominently displayed on the left side of the page.

ABOUT THE JOURNAL

E*ducation Next* bases its editorial policy on the premise that the education sector is ripe for major change and reform. We publish articles that feature some of the best current thinking on issues such as encouraging school choice, raising standards, and improving teacher quality.

We are committed to encouraging the open exchange of ideas, presenting the latest research findings, and stimulating thoughtful discourse about contemporary education.

Since the Spring of 2001, Education Next has produced high quality quarterly journals which have disseminated cutting-edge research and thoughtful feature articles that are as accessible to the everyday parent as they are to academics.

In fact, according to a study released by the Editorial Projects in Education (EPE) Research Center, Education Next is the most influential journal and the 8th most influential source of information about K-12 education over the past decade.

Our comprehensive website, <http://educationnext.org>, houses not only full archives of our print content but also hosts blogs, videos, and podcasts, with new material available daily.
